"The Eucharist is God's response to the deepest hunger of the human heart."

~Pope Francis

"If we are to have peace on earth, our loyalties must become Ecumenical rather than sectional. Our loyalties must transcend our race, our tribe, our class, and our nation." Martine Luther King Jr. (1967)

For all who feel on the margins,

But who are at the center of your heart,

We ask you to open our hearts.

Help us to become a church and a nation where:

All lives have dignity,

All people are loved,

And all are welcome!

Love Without Measure...

To appreciate today's gospel in which heals the beggar Bartimaeus, we should remember last week's gospel in which Jesus has a conversation with the apostles James and John. In both gospels Jesus asks the exact same question, "What do you want me to do for you?" But the answers in the two gospels are very different. James and John ask that they sit at Jesus' right and left when he comes into his glory. Bartimaeus says, "Master I want to see." James and John ask for glory and power. Bartimaeus asks for sight and understanding. Jesus tells James and John that he cannot grant their request, but he immediately responds to Bartimaeus, and the beggar receives his sight.

When we place the two gospels side by side, they tell us that sight is more important than glory, that understanding is more to be desired than power. And this is an important message because you and I, like James and John, are attracted to power. We seek to make things happen, to get things done. We want the power to bring about that which is good. We look at our children and say, "I want to make sure that they grow into mature and successful adults." We look at someone we care for who is struggling with addiction and say, "I want to fix them." Today's gospel tells us that before we ask Jesus for the power to do things, we should first ask to see. We are called to see our children as the gifted and unique people that they are, because if we can love them as they are today, it is more likely that they will grow into the adults they need to be. We should see the person who is struggling with addiction as someone captive to fear and shame, because if we can recognize what enslaves a person and stand with them in their brokenness, it is more likely that they will be successful in recovery.

We look at the partisan divisions and the polarization that severely damages our politics during this present election season. When personal attacks and a complete disregard for the truth characterize our civil discourse, everyone ultimately loses, our nation can be irreversibly damaged and the freedom we, so value, put at risk. Even as our church continues to struggle with the issue of abuse, we hunger to have the power to fix the problem. Today's gospel tells us that before we ask for the power to do something, we should ask for the ability to see – to see the anger and prejudice that fuel the political divide, to see the root causes and sinfulness that allow abuse to continue. It is only when we see and understand the brokenness of our political and church systems that we will be able to rebuild them.

We are a little more than one week away from a very important national election that many say is the most important election of our lifetime. Vote early if you can or vote on November 5. The future of the nation rides on the commitment of our citizens to do their part. Do it not only for us but for our children and future generations.

Fr. Bill

Celebrate!
PRIESTHOOD SUNDAY

This weekend the Cleveland Catholic Diocese is celebrating Priesthood Sunday. This is a special time to give thanks to the Master of the Harvest, Jesus Christ, for calling the men who serve us as priests in His likeness. Priesthood Sunday inspires us to an awareness of the gift of the priesthood of Jesus Christ, an appreciation of all those who have responded to His call to follow Him, and a renewal of prayer and support for the young men who now are discerning the call.

More information on the priesthood can be found at:

Update on Arthur Tyler

This past week Arthur Tyler met with the Parole Board of Ohio and was freed! Thank You So Much to all of you who prayed for his release. It will occur by January of 2005, with parole meetings monthly. He will go right into Edwin's Restaurant Program where he will learn to be a chef. There is room and board on the premises for six months, then he will live with his sister Francine and work as a chef. He is also a paralegal and may find work with a law office. Now is the time to thank God on your weekly or monthly prayer list. I pray in thanksgiving to the Father who spoke Arthur's name to the Board members, to Jesus who gave up His life to free Arthur's soul, and to the Holy Spirit who enlightens and strengthens Arthur's heart. AMEN! Thank you, Pat Takacs
